President Makes Address and Declares that Movement Marks Beginning of National Co-operation for Conservation of National and International Resources,

Foreign and United States commisioners to the North American conservation conference, now in session in this city, were the guests of honor at the Army and Navy reception at the White House last night. Later they were guests at a supper given by President Roosevelt.

The commission, called by President Roosevelt, met vesterday morning in the East Room of the White House, where they were received by the Chief Executive and members of the Cabinet. The nmissioners and delegates later met in the diplomatic room of the State Depart ment, where addresses were made by Gifford Pinchot, United States Forester, and others.

At a business session in the afternoon Mr. Pinchot was elected chairman of the conference. Little business was trans acted yesterday, and the bulk of the matter under consideration will come up to-day and to-morrow.

The Wonderful Art Treasures

From the Musee Oriental of Constantinople, which are displayed for sale at the Gallery of Foreign Arts, Dupont Circle, offer to the public of Washington an opportunity that has never been equaled in this country for the wonderful masterpleces of textile fabrics from the looms of Persia and the Orient. Important numbers in the catalogue, which will be shown and sold to-day, include marvelous pleces noted for their wonderful design, texture, and color, many of which have been exhibited in the Musee Oriental of Constantinople and viewed by many tourists while there in that city, and which have never been offered for sale under any conditions until this present announcement. The large Royal Palace Bokhara, which is 25 feet long and 12 feet wide, is in itself a masterplece in the art of weaving and color that will well repay connoisseurs and curators of museums throughout the country to see and purchase for private collection and public bequests. There are also many other wonderful rugs on view that could not be seen elsewhere outside of this collection. The Gallery of Foreign Arts extend to the public a free view of this Musee Oriental collection daily at 11 a, m. from now until Wednesday next.
